A Sparkling Wine From Down Under Is Popping Up At Parties

(NAPSA)—Beautifully elegant with a lemon-gold color, a unique sparkling wine from down under is popping up frequently right here in the United States.

This fun and festive Australian sparkling wine is Seaview Brut.

This delicious sparkler is not just showing up at weddings and other special celebrations but is being shared with friends at everyday get-togethers as a refreshing treat. Receiving a perennial “best buy” from wine critics, it is surprisingly rich, with flavors of dried pears and apples with a nutty finish. And it has none of the metallic or flinty aftertaste so often found in bargain bubbly.

Seaview is inexpensive, but made in the Methode Champenoise tradition and is a tremendous value. Not surprisingly, Seaview Brut is now recognized as a fine Australian sparkling wine and has become a proven performer around the world.

Serving this wine with a few flavorful hors d'oeuvres or satisfying desserts can be a party in itself, whether it is a romantic
