Acrylic Picture Frames Measure Up

(NAPSA)—A growing number of homeowners are thinking acrylic when looking to protect and increase the value of their framed art.

The trend comes as professional framers are finding that materials like ACRYLITE® acrylic sheet allow them to provide customers with high optical clarity and protection against fading.

CLEAR THINKING—When framing pictures, more homeowners are thinking acrylic.

Why the new interest in acrylic sheet?

Aside from being half the weight of glass—which makes it excellent for large or oversized pieces of art—ACRYLITE sheet is also shatter-resistant and protects against scratches. It's considered a safe alternative to glass, especially for homes with small children.

What's more, ACRYLITE sheet comes in different grades to meet specific needs. ACRYLITE® FF-3 acrylic sheet is manufactured to provide the highest optical clarity available for acrylic framing. Another grade for conservation framing, ACRYLITE® AR-OP-3 acrylic sheet, filters out 98 percent of harmful UV light that can cause artwork to deteriorate, while providing a chemical and abrasion resistant coating.
