

Fashion Forward

All Eyes On You

(NAPSA)—Minute crystals of silicon carbide discovered in 1893 have led to the creation of moissanite, a jewel sparking a lot of interest among women today, and one that is now considered the “little black dress” of accessories.

What attracts women to moissanite—named after its discoverer, Nobel Prize-winning French scientist Dr. Henri Moissan—is that when they wear it, they feel confident, smart and sexy.

Sparkling 2-carat moissanite martini stud earrings in 14-karat white gold; suggested retail, $1,499.

Much like the little black dress, moissanite appeals to women on an emotional level. Whether they enter a room filled with friends or strangers, women notice the attention they receive, especially when wearing a pair of sparkling moissanite martini stud earrings.

Since the introduction of these incredible jewels, created exclusively by Charles & Colvard and available at fine jewelry and department stores across the nation, women everywhere have discovered what it means to get that “all eyes on you” feeling simply by walking into a room.

To learn more, visit www.moissanite.com.