

American Athletes At Home In Beijing

(NAPSA)—U.S. Olympic athletes and their families will be getting support they can bank on when they arrive in Beijing for the 2008 Olympic Games.

A unique hospitality experience, the Bank of America Home-town Hopefuls Family Center, will act as a home base for friends, families and over 600 qualified U.S. Olympians during the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing, China.

“We know that behind every athlete who makes the U.S. Olympic Team, there are families and friends who have made personal sacrifices to support and encourage that athlete’s Olympic dream,” said Bank of America’s Anne Finucane. The bank, a major corporate sponsor of the U.S. Olympic Team, “is proud to recognize these very special people, and we hope that participation in this program adds to their enjoyment of watching America’s team in its quest for Olympic gold,” she added.

A family center in Beijing will bring American athletes closer to their dream and let them stay connected with family and friends.

The multilevel 15,500-square-foot Family Center facility, located in the western part of Beijing, will feature many of the comforts of home.

For more information or to learn more about Olympic programming, visit www.AmericasCheer.com.