

spotlight on health

Celebrity Mug Auction To Benefit Breast Cancer Research

(NAPSA)—There's good news for people looking to add a special collector's item to their home and at the same time help support breast cancer research. They will have the chance this October, when nearly 90 pink celebrity-signed mugs go up for charity auction on the eBay Giving Works site.

Conversation Piece

The pink, oversized Nonni's Biscotti mug is sure to be an attractive and lively conversation piece in your home, and each features a signature from one of today's biggest and brightest celebrities. Autographs range from singers to actors to soap stars and more, including Debra Messing, Susan Lucci, Joel Madden, Christina Milian, Jesse Metcalfe, Melody Thomas Scott, Julianne Hough and Shannon Elizabeth.

All Money Raised Donated To Breast Cancer Research

By winning the mug of your choice, you will not only earn a fashionable mug signed by one of your favorite stars, but the highest bidder will also receive a picture of the celebrity with the mug. Don't worry about feeling you're caving in to a guilty pleasure, either. You can feel good about claiming victory on your new designer mug, as 100 percent of proceeds will be donated to Susan

Debra Messing of "Will and Grace" and "The Starter Wife" is one of the celebrities who signed a mug that will be up for auction.

G. Komen for the Cure in support of breast cancer research.

As October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, the charity auction will officially kick off on October 1 and run throughout the entire month.

In addition to the auction, for every box of Nonni's Biscotti purchased, 75 cents goes toward Susan G. Komen for the Cure when the UPC code is entered on www.nonnis.com.

For a complete list of celebrity-signed mugs, visit www.ebay.com/nonniscelibritymugs.