Clean-Up Help For Do-It-Yourselfers

(NAPSA)—Do-it-yourselfers are throwing in the towel—make that throwing away the towel—and getting cleaned more easily. A one-step clean-up solution is steering anyone who likes to work on their car to a new heavy-duty pre-moistened hand wipe.

Cleaning up grease, grime, oil and paint is easy with new products for home and automotive maintenance projects.

Called SCOTT® Shop Towels Hand Wipes, they provide car care do-it-yourselfers with an easy way to clean soiled hands without soap and water. The heavy duty, extra large hand wipe comes in a convenient pop-up canister to provide portable at-the-job clean-up. A spokesman for the SCOTT brand, which created them, says the wipes easily remove grease, grime, oil, paint and ink from hands.

For Messy Jobs

Another clean-up solution from SCOTT for contractors and home handypersons is called Contractor Rags In A Box. The fast-absorbing towels offer outstanding strength and tear-resistance when wet or dry. They are ideal for tackling demanding home improvement and automotive projects. A self-dispensing pop-up box delivers one clean, fresh towel at a time. Because the towel stays remarkably strong, even in solvents, it can be used again and again.
