Enhancing The Everyday Shower Experience

(NAPSA)—In the home, there just aren't too many places where a person can escape to for privacy. In the morning, you quickly hop in the shower, or if you're lucky, sometimes it's a long shower at the end of a busy day. Very often the only sanctuary left in the home is the bathroom, and it's increasingly becoming the place where people choose to relax and unwind.

It seems that today people are pulling out all the stops to make their bathroom experience thoroughly enjoyable. From potpourri and aromatherapy accessories to towel warmers, in-floor heating systems and even state-of-the-art entertainment centers, there are many innovative options for people wanting to take their bath experience to the next level. The shower is getting a lot of attention as well. Now, new options offer an enhanced experience every day.

A Jetted Shower, part of the Monitor 1800 Series from Delta Faucet Company, is a new category of shower product that gives people an obtainable alternative to conventional shower technology. This next-generation shower option features two jet modules that produce a cone-shaped spray and can be adjusted to any angle to accommodate different heights in the household. The spray from each of the jets can also be adjusted independently from the showerhead using a separate on/off/volume control. A Jetted Shower provides "that little extra something" every day.

Installing a Jetted Shower is easy for plumbers and cost-effective for homeowners. Whether upgrading an existing shower or choosing the fixture for a new home, the Jetted Shower is a unique option. While the one-of-a-kind valving design is similar to conventional showers, the experience is totally new and different. And, the Monitor 1800 Series Jetted Shower is a convenient alternative to luxury shower systems and typically under-used whirlpool baths.

"We've invented technology that breaks new ground in the shower," said Colin Thielmann, product development manager, Delta Faucet Company, "and the response has been overwhelmingly positive." Just as a towel warmer, fan heater or in-floor heating system makes the entire bathing experience a little better, so too does a Jetted Shower.
