Finding Year-Round Gifts

(NAPSA)—If you're having trouble deciding on that one special gift, try 12 gifts instead. Gift-of-the-month clubs are a great way to give something that lasts all year long—plus, they can save you the stress of shopping for the one perfect gift.

For instance, film buffs, or anyone who enjoys entertainment, might appreciate a subscription to Film Movement. It's a first-run film-of-the-month club for award-winning, independent and foreign films.

A film-of-the-month club can make a great gift.

Each month, recipients receive some of the best films available. The films, which are the recipients' to keep, range from "The Party's Over," starring Philip Seymour Hoffman, to Sundance Film Festival winner "Manito," directed by Eric Eason. Foreign film titles include Israeli Oscar winner, "Campfire," and San Francisco, Toronto and Berlin Film Festival winner, "The Man of the Year," from Brazil.

In addition to a feature film, each monthly DVD comes with a short film from a hot new director. Previous shorts included the first films from Sofia Coppola ("Lost In Translation") and Mike Mills ("Thumbsucker").
