

Great Gift Ideas For Dad

Follow Dad's Hobby; Find His Gift

(NAPS)—Finding the perfect gift is never easy, especially for the Dad who has everything. Keeping in mind his favorite hobbies and interests will usually lead you in the right direction. Here are some suggestions to consider:

- For the Stay-At-Home Dad: Give him a high-definition camcorder to create a video library of the kids for the whole family to enjoy. The Sony HDR-UX10 high-definition DVD camcorder preserves your family memories in the highest video quality and records directly to DVD discs for easy playback and sharing.

- For the Movie Lover: An unlimited subscription to Dad's favorite online video store will keep him happy and up-to-date on the latest screen gems. Top it off with a year's supply of gourmet popcorn.

- For the Fishing Enthusiast: Instead of casting about for gifts, head to the sporting goods store and reel in the items to indulge his quiet pastime. From tackle boxes to lures, you'll be sure to find the gift he'll love.

- For the Traveler: Pamper your frequent flier; with a deluxe travel kit, stocked with a blanket with cozy foot pockets, a pillow, a scented eye mask so he can sleep like a baby on the plane, and a travel reading set. You can find deluxe sets with clear plastic sleeves to protect his books, an elegant bookmark and clip-on book light. Complete the gift with the hardback copy of the latest best-seller.

- For the Avid Reader: Having trouble getting Dad's attention because his nose is always behind a book? Surprise him with a literary vacation and get him out of the house. Find or create a tour package that will guide him through Stratford-Upon-Avon and Canterbury to indulge his love for Shakespeare and Chaucer, or through Transylvania, Romania to discover the truths and legends that inspired Stoker's "Dracula."
