Help A Hero

(NAPSA)—It all started when Jose Morales decided to change. His alcoholism cost him his family, home and job. He entered Alcoholics Anonymous and turned his life around.

Today he is sober and helping others recover from addiction. In 1991, Morales opened the doors to J24, a healing shelter for low-income, Hispanic New Yorkers battling alcoholism.

J24 offers a 24-hour-a-day haven in which substance abusers can find food, shelter and a meeting place to begin recovery.

Morales' incredible contribution to his community earned him honors at the Volvo for life Awards, an annual search for and celebration of local heroes. In recognition of his extraordinary effort, Volvo awarded him a $25,000 charitable donation.

If you know a hero, nominate him or her for the fourth annual Volvo for life Awards at www.volvoforlifeawards.com through Jan. 15, 2006. Six of the nine finalists get $25,000 charitable contributions and three receive $50,000 donations. One overall winner receives a new Volvo for life.
