Inspiring Projects For Every Room

(NAPSA)—There's no place like home—especially when you have decorated it the way you like it.

To help, a new book offers bright and inventive new ways to incorporate crafts into home decorating.

The book, Creative Decor: Beautiful and Inspired Projects for Every Room (Stewart House Publishing, $14.95) is written by Sue Warden. Warden is the host of the weekly television show Sue Warden CraftScapes and the new series of TV Specials, Sue Warden's Creative Decor.

“A heartfelt project for me, this book is based on my own home and marries crafting and home decor, two of today's fastest growing industries,” said Warden. “I have endeavored to combine the two in a simple, yet effective, manner that enables all of us to introduce beautiful accessories into our homes.”

Each chapter of the book contains several projects created specially for a particular room of the house.

Every project is accompanied by a list of materials, hints and tips, comprehensive, easy-to-follow instructions and beautiful photographs. The projects tie each room together in a visual theme.

For example, projects for the master bedroom include a way to stencil bed linens in the room's palette of colors and patterns, create a coordinating privacy screen and gild secondhand picture frames to highlight design elements.

A new book details simple and inexpensive projects that are designed to deliver professional results.

“Each project is carefully constructed to create a professional result,” said Warden. “I have taken great care to keep the cost of each project reasonable and the instructions simple.”

From creating a wreath to painting a floor cloth to sewing a table runner, the projects are simple and the results are polished.

With Warden's expert guidance, amateur and seasoned crafters alike can create a beautiful home brimming with taste and style.
