Leader Of The Pack

(NAPSA)—Tina Mayolo Pic of the Quark Cycling Team is proud. The Dahlonega, Georgia native has been bike racing since her premed days at the University of Georgia in 1994.

Cycling champ Tina Mayolo Pic.

Her coach told her it would take her years to become a world-class rider, but even a lung problem in 1997 couldn't keep her from the U.S. Olympic Team in 2004.

Now she races for the champion cycling team sponsored by Quark™ Footwear.

Quarks are ultralightweight footwear, actually weighing less than the box they come in and a great match for any sport in which lightweight equipment is the standard. That's why these shoes are used by sport cyclists the world over. They offer unmatched comfort, durability and flexibility. The shoes' lightweight rubber and EVA material has naturally insulating air pockets that cushion and manage temperature, and the DRYZ™ Moisture Management System helps keep your feet dry and comfortable.
