

Live, Immediate Tax Advice

(NAPSA)—This year, as belt-tightening, bottom-line-conscious consumers look for more ways to save money while preparing and filing their taxes themselves, they'll have a new resource to help them.

By visiting a Web site, consumers can get live tax advice from a CPA.

By visiting www.keen.com/taxes, consumers can choose from a list of CPAs from throughout the U.S. and get live, immediate, professional tax advice—without leaving home.

Visitors to the site select the tax expert who is right for them by learning about the advisor's expertise, credentials, and feedback from other consumers who have rated their experiences.

Once you have selected an advisor you can get answers to specific tax questions or get overall tax planning advice for a minimal fee.

According to one of the CPAs on keen, "We're here to help people who need quality, personal advice immediately. When you're doing your own taxes, a little professional help at just the right time can make a big difference, and save you money."

To learn more, visit the Web site at www.keen.com/taxes.
