

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

A Guide To Make Home Repairs “Plumb” Easy

(NAPSA)—Whether you live in a modest cottage or a sprawling estate, if you are a homeowner, chances are at some point you will be faced with a home repair job.

Often, homeowners will try to do the job themselves, whether it's painting, landscaping or plumbing, in an effort to save money. Unfortunately, people can sometimes get in over their heads when they try to tackle a job for which they lack the necessary skills or information.

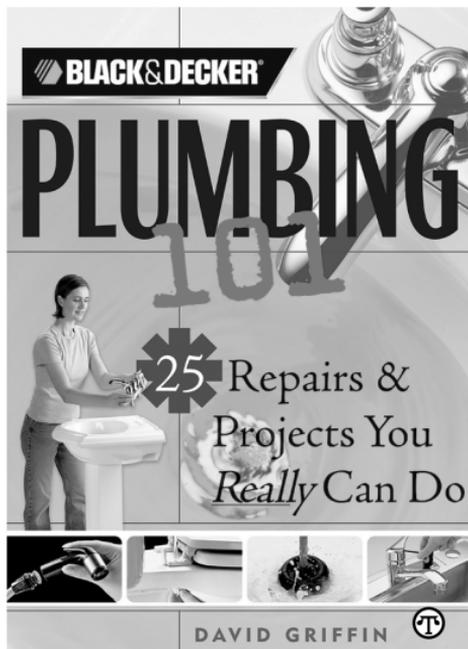

The good news for homeowners who like to do it themselves is that help is on the way in the form of a new book. Plumbing 101 is said to give complete directions for overcoming 25 of the most common plumbing problems facing homeowners.

Aimed at homeowners with little or no do-it-yourself experience, Black & Decker® Plumbing 101 (Creative Publishing international/July 2006/$18.95 paperback) assumes no previous knowledge and claims to eliminate guesswork and confusion.

Experts say homeowners who know what they are doing may be able to save a significant amount of money by making their own basic plumbing repairs.

Plumbing 101 was created so homeowners could remedy the most common plumbing problems themselves.

Some of the projects included are thawing frozen pipes, fixing a burst pipe, retrieving an item from the sink drain, stopping toilet runs and adjusting or replacing tank components, replacing a kitchen sink faucet, plus much more.
