Multimedia Show Helps Students Face Pressure

(NAPSA)—Young people face many pressures these days, but often the one that can lead to the most damage is the decision to drink. Now a dynamic multimedia assembly show created by Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) is making a difference in helping teenagers resist that pressure and guiding them to make smart choices.

MADD

Getting applause from parents and students alike is a high-energy multimedia show that helps teens make smart choices.

MADD's newest show for middle and high school students, "FACE," is sponsored by DaimlerChrysler and its Road Ready Teens[™] program. The show includes real stories that make an impact with high-energy music, videos and movie clips. It is narrated by Solange Knowles, a teen singing sensation. Also available is MADD's other high school show, "IRL...in real life."

"Superhero," aimed at elementary students, focuses on how the brain works and how children can stay safe and healthy by protecting themselves.

Research shows that the earlier young people begin to drink, the more likely they are to become alcohol dependent and to drive drunk. For more information on how to book a show, visit www.schoolassembly.org or call 1-800-GET-MADD.
