

newsworthy trends

New Ways To Hot-Foot It Into Spring Fashions

(NAPSA)—One important fashion rule of thumb is to pay attention to your toes—and what covers them.

This season's styles for socks and hose include some surprising new trends that may earn your legs a second look.

One head-turning trend is wearing socks with open-toe shoe styles. Spring 2001 ready-to wear looks on runways from New York to London softens the headiness of heels with the innocence of the anklet.

Directional anklet styles from the new Hanes Ultimate legwear collection include two-toned double cuffs and "shorties" with high-contrast accents, or sporty stripes in citrus hues and corals—certain to add allure to the sandaled foot. The collection also features a blooming bouquet of fresh florals and a range of pinks—ranging from hot azalea to soft blush.

The socks feature hand-linked toe seams to make them smoother and more comfortable when worn with spring-style shoes.

At DKNY, two new streamlined Basics collections could knock your socks off. Luxe Basics feature classic silhouettes and include four styles in a soft rayon blend yarn. The Microfiber Bodysock Basic has four silhouettes in three leg lengths with body hugging "second skin" features.

Fashion multipacks offer many styles in the season's most fashionable colors, while knee highs are in the spotlight and Foot hose may be the most popular new hosiery leg length.

When it comes to hose this year, you won't have to fish for a defining look. It's fishnet in full length or thigh-high.

The finesse of fishnet is one reason legs are getting a second look this season.

The finesse of fishnet can add sophistication to professional attire or pack plenty of fashion punch when paired with trendy boots or a flirty skirt. New Beyond Bare fishnet pantyhose deliver the same quality and luxurious silky benefit as the rest of the Beyond Bare line—plus a unique, sewn-in waistband to make the hose more comfortable.

Lovable fishnets are available in pantyhose and thigh-high styles.

This season's colorful, distinctive leg wear introduces a whimsical new hook to spring fashion to appeal to trendsetters.