Plants To Give Your Garden A New Look

(NAPSA)—There's good news for those looking for new plants to spruce up a yard. Here are five "must have" plants that can enhance the beauty of a garden.

• Hydrangea Forever & Ever

New breeding has created hydrangeas that bloom on new growth each spring, ensuring blooms every year and making inconsistent blooming a thing of the past.

Forever & Ever Red has rosy-red mop-head flowers on top of red stems. Late in the year, these large blooms fade to a beautiful shade of purple.

Forever & Ever Double Pink is a small plant with large six-inch bloom clusters of fully double rich pink flowers. These flowers become a billowy mass of clear blue if grown in appropriately high soil acidity.

The original Forever & Ever has large mop-head flowers that are pink or blue, depending on soil acidity.

These three varieties were created to provide a constant show of color through the summer. Learn more about how to care for them at www.foreverhydrangea.com.

• Frosty Pearl Euonymus

Frosty Pearl can be planted as a mounding shrub or can be trained into a climbing vine. The foliage is a forest green color with a creamy white edge. In the summer, the plant produces pearl-size, frosted-looking berries that change to a brilliant red in the fall. Hardy to zone 4, this plant is a standout in a shade garden.

• Flower Carpet Scarlet Rose

The Scarlet Rose is loaded with double-scarlet blooms throughout the summer and is the newest of the Flower Carpet family of disease-resistant roses. This stunning and truly easy-care rose blooms in abundance and grows to about 36 inches high and wide.

• My Monet Weigela

My Monet is a dwarf variegated Weigela with pink-tinged, cream-edged leaves. It is a new introduction from Proven Winners Color Choice that grows to about 24 inches tall and is hardy to zone 5.

• Rainbow Knock Out Rose

This shrub rose produces sprays of blooms in hues of pink, coral and yellow. This beauty is a descendant of Knock Out, known for its resistance to black spot rose disease.

These top-five performers can be a great addition to a yard and garden, and are among the "must have," top-performing plants for this year.
