Remodeling Renovation

(NAPSA)—Homeowners continued to invest in their homes by spending almost $127 billion on remodeling during 2004. Some ways homeowners can reduce renovation headaches include learning about local building ordinances and other building restrictions at your town or city hall.

Reducing renovation headaches may start by finding the right renovation design software.

When choosing a reputable builder, be sure to get references. Many cost-conscious homeowners also use CADPro (Computer Aid Design) software to create renovation designs on their own PC.

Renovation design software such as CADPro 4 offers homeowners a way to incorporate their ideas into a customized floor plan that a contractor or handy homeowner can build from. For more information, visit www.cadprosoftware.com.
