

Superior Sound All Around

(NAPSA)—Did you know that according to Nielsen Media Research, Inc., the average American watches more than 4.5 hours of television daily? Whether it's TV, movies or music, entertainment enthusiasts have plenty of audio options to help create an enjoyable experience any time.

For example, you can gather the gang around an Acoustic Research Wireless Home Theater system (WHT6024) and rock out to your favorite music or movie.

The system works with multiple media players and eliminates the need for wires strung around the room. This unit automatically changes frequencies so it doesn't interfere with other wireless products such as microwaves and cordless phones.

At nightfall, feel the full power of movies, sports, gaming and music with a pair of Acoustic Research wireless headphones (model AWD510). With these 5.1 Dolby Digital surround sound headphones, you'll be able to stay fully entertained without hearing, "turn down the volume." Immerse yourself in theater sound for one! For more information, visit audiovox.com.