

All Aboard For The Best Of Europe

(NAPSA)—Train travelers get the most from their vacation travel around Europe. It's easy to see why:

- Trains are fast—up to 186 miles per hour—so for most trips under 350 miles you get there faster than flying, without wasting time at airports.

Typical of Europe's high-speed trains is the Inter-City Express (ICE) service in Germany.

- Trains are more convenient too, saving you the safety concerns of driving.

- Trains are comfortable and efficient, moving you directly from city center to city center. No parking worry. Plenty of leg room, with drinks and snacks available.

- On trains you can chat with Europeans and learn about how they look at the world.

- Trains are usually cheaper than air or rental car travel.

Be sure to buy your railpass here because most are not available in Europe. For peak season travel it's wise to have a reservation beforehand.

Consult Rail Europe, the largest European rail supplier, to book any train on the continent. Just call 888-382-7245 or visit their award-winning Web site: www.raileurope.com to check fares, schedules or book online.
