

On The Move

Tips To Make Moving Easy

(NAPSA)—Forty-seven million people will move this year. It may surprise you to learn that in the hustle and bustle of their moves, many people forget one important step: Alerting friends and family that they've changed locations.

Mailing change-of-address postcards has never been easier.

Now there is a fast, easy, inexpensive way to send out change-of-address postcards. Premium Postcard.com in partnership with the United States Postal Service has launched www.moverspostcards.com. To use the service, simply go online, pick out a postcard and write a message.

Then submit a list of people to receive a postcard and the company prints the cards and mails them out the next business day. Users can also upload their own pictures to the site to create customized postcards.

The service prints millions of postcards each year for companies and consumers—many of whom also use the service to send invitations for events including house warmings, barbecues and weddings.