

BABY BASICS

Treating Cold Symptoms

(NAPSA)—In general, a baby with a cold is an unhappy baby. In addition to the discomfort caused by coughing, sneezing and nasal congestion, infants can also be bothered by the medicines used to treat cold symptoms. Parents, luckily, are now finding relief for their children with a non-medicated product.

A non-medicated product may help relieve the discomfort caused by a cold or congestion.

For babies suffering from nasal congestion, Baby Ayr Saline Nose Spray/Drops loosens and thins secretions to aid in the removal of mucus from the nose and sinuses. It also restores moisture to dry, crusted and inflamed nasal membranes caused by colds.

Parents may also appreciate Baby Ayr's unique bottle design, which eases application, allowing the product to be applied as either drops or a spray. Either way, the non-medicated formula will not burn or sting baby, and has none of the unpleasant side effects of decongestant drops or sprays.

To learn more, visit the Web site at www.bfascher.com.