

HOLIDAY GIFT IDEAS

Under Santa's Radar

(NAPSA)—When it comes to choosing gifts, despite his many unearthly talents, Santa follows the crowd like everyone else. But giving predictable holiday-fads means missing out on great products that leave a lasting impression. This year, consider the following unusual and affordable gift ideas under Santa's radar:

For movers and shakers, the CapRadio is a tiny 1 oz. FM radio that attaches to baseball caps and other apparel ($19.99). www.perfectcurve.com

Parents of future Ivy League grads will love Brainy Baby® videos, award-winning learning tools that encourage whole brain development in children six months to five years (VHS $15.95 and DVDs $19.95). www.brainybaby.com

A great way for children and adults to learn more about their ancestral roots and traditions, FamilyLore is a game that encourages players to bond while sharing memories and stories ($29.95). www.familyloregame.com

Give adult SpongeBob Squarepants™ fans a Director's Chair depicting the popular character ($29.99). Furniture for kids featuring characters from other Nickelodeon™ shows like Dora the Explorer™ is also available.

For young speed demons, the X-Trek™ is a programmable Micro R/C racing set with built-in charging stations on the remote control and racetrack ($29.99). www.silverlit.com

For more holiday gift ideas visit www.productivity.net.