

Well-Dressed Wherever The Party Takes You Feel Beautiful from Holiday Office Party to The Symphony

(NAPSA)—Every holiday season can bring fun and festivities that vary from office party to entertaining at home. It is almost inevitable that you will be looking for a few new outfits to make you feel special, but how do you find something for each occasion without spending a fortune? One key to looking brilliant, without an entirely new wardrobe, is mixing versatile statement pieces that can be worn from day into evening.

“The idea is to choose a few flexible items with special details that can be added to your existing wardrobe creating a festive look for special events,” said Marcia Minter, who researches fashion trends for Spiegel Catalog, Inc. “The holiday season is a time for women to wear certain fabrics and finishes that they would be less likely to wear during the rest of the year. Distinctive pieces that have shimmer and shine can be elegant when paired with slacks, skirts and sweaters allowing a woman to move from different times of day and to a variety of holiday events.”

Minter also says that black is always a good choice to create a complete look. “All the guesswork is gone when you pair something with black because it always feels sophisticated. In catalogs like Spiegel, a woman will find many options in black that can work within her existing wardrobe,” said Minter.

Before you head out to mix and mingle your way through the season, check out the fashion ideas below for a sophisticated and pretty look:
