What's On Your Walls?

(NAPSA)—One of the easiest and quickest ways to change your home decor is wall art. Hanging a new print or poster, or changing pieces with the seasons can transform the mood of any room. Decorators say it's also a nice way to make a dramatic difference inexpensively.

To do this, many consumers are turning to the Internet for home decorating ideas and solutions because of its convenience, cost effectiveness and simplicity. "Web sites like Art.com are a great resource for choosing and purchasing wall art," said Melissa Andron, principle at Realm Design Studio. "The site is ideal as a virtual gallery for determining individual style. Plus, with their online custom framing, it's an easy and economical way to create the look and quality everyone is searching for without breaking the budget."

Internet sites such as Art.com resolve any doubt surrounding the selection of wall art. They provide visitors with art as unique as each customer. Art.com, for example, provides visitors with an extensive selection that is easy to navigate with an alphabetical inventory of artists and subjects, and a list of the 100 most popular selections. The option for viewing and purchasing prints with a variety of frames eliminates the guesswork by allowing the consumer to quickly judge which frame and matte looks best with their print.

The site even offers decorating tips for shoppers with advice on how to set the mood in a room and how to group prints with furniture.

Wall decor can also be a wonderful, personalized gift. Whether you are shopping for a sports fan or a fan of the arts, you are sure
