Youth And Vigor

(NAPSA)—For a number of young men with an old problem, ancient herbs may hold the answer.

An herbal treatment for men may help many avoid the side effects of a popular prescription pill and help them regain vigor.

An all-herbal supplement based on the principles of traditional Chinese medicine may help men avoid the impaired vision and indigestion often associated with the most commonly prescribed anti-impotence pill.

Recent tests reported in the Journal of Urology revealed that the supplement can prevent erectile dysfunction in lab rats. In addition, it offers a cumulative effect the prescription medicine does not. Taken daily, the herbal medicine is said to result in an ongoing enhanced sexual performance.
